Lena we found all of his lawsuits on Google by typing his name in. I know his Twitter and the cell number he gave me but not sure if it's still active. He doesn't seem to care about hiding so I'm sure his Facebook would be relatively easy to track down if he has one!

Eve Salazar he pressed lawsuits against a number of women to extort money from them and was suspected in the murder of his ex wife. I think the doc could investigate the murder since he clearly didn't go to jail about it and instead of accuse him just plant seeds of speculation.

But he is obviously a predator so keep in mind he could make new profiles with new names or false info if his ego is damaged enough from being removed (he is an overt narcissist so caution is necessary!)

I don't have Bumble or Tinder so I'm not sure how to report him from there, if you've matched with him on either place I encourage you to try to have him removed from those as well.

STAY SAFE LADIESSSS!!

freaking out because who tf does that?! To show up uninvited at a place I didn't tell you about? Luckily a British guy a few seats over heard everything and pretended like he knew me and my client, apologized for having a call that ran long, and said why don't we go somewhere more private to discuss our work. At that point my client and I said sorry to Lucas and that we have to go with the British guy because there's a major deal we are working on so we left and Lucas huffed and puffed. (British guy had prepaid our tab, unbeknownst to us, so we wouldn't be hampered in trying to leave.) In the elevator the nice Brit mentioned how sorry he was for his gender and that seeing how distraught and panicked I was made him almost call the cops but that the bartender knew if Lucas tried to follow us to def call the cops. To this day I feel incredibly lucky that guy interjected and stepped in. Still thinking about that afternoon scares tf out of me. Lucas should NOT be allowed on any of these apps because he really is dangerous af.

He was a perfect gentleman, incredibly kind, tall, and handsome, but I was so distraught about Lucas that it never registered for me to get his info. Hey everyone, I've tried reporting Lucas through Hinge a couple of times and haven't heard back.

I don't have Bumble so I'm unable to report him there, according to their website. Would anyone else be able to do it?

Lena we found all of his lawsuits on Google by typing his name in. I know his Twitter and the cell number he gave me but not sure if it's still active. He doesn't seem to care about hiding so I'm sure his Facebook would be relatively easy to track down if he has one!

manipulate and coerce to his house for some reason. It's so eerie. ☺

Elly Shariat

Matched with him on Tinder a few years back. He wanted to meet up IMMEDIATELY but I made it clear I couldn't because I had a client in town, also let him know my texts/replies wouldn't be timely because I'd be with my client and didn't want to be rude. He found my Instagram and even though I hadn't geo-tagged where in Beverly Hills I was, I guess he recognized the pool and at some point in the evening stopped by the hotel and sat down next to me and my client at the bar exclaiming "I've been looking for you all over town! You're a hard girl to pin down!" I was flabbergasted and freaking out because who tf does that?! To show up uninvited at a place I didn't tell you about? Luckily a British guy a few seats over heard everything and pretended like he knew me and my client, apologized for having a call that ran long, and said why don't we go somewhere more private to discuss our work. At that point my client and I said sorry to Lucas and that we have to go with the British guy because there's a major deal we are working on so we left and Lucas huffed and puffed. (British guy had prepaid our tab, unbeknownst to us, so we wouldn't be hampered in trying to leave.) In the elevator the nice Brit mentioned how sorry he was for his gender and that seeing how distraught and panicked I was made him almost call the cops but that the bartender knew if Lucas tried to follow us to def call the cops. To this day I feel incredibly lucky that guy interjected and stepped in. Still thinking about that afternoon scares tf out of me. Lucas should NOT be allowed on any of these apps because he really is dangerous af.

Liv Burger

Elly Shariat omg that's terrible!

Kel Culb Gib

Elly Shariat omg! Did you get the British guys name?? That guy might have saved you from some serious trauma. I'm so sorry that happened to you! Lucas needs to be friggin stopped like wtf is the solution here ??

Elly Shariat

Kel Culb Gib sadly, we never got his info and I legit feel AWFUL that we didn't. He came to my client's room an hour after rescuing us, saw I was still upset and shook up, and even took us to Nobu in WeHo for dinner to help me get my mind off what happened. He was a perfect gentleman, incredibly kind, tall, and handsome, but I was so distraught about Lucas that it never registered for me to get his info. My client tried to use the context clues he had given through the night to find him but we never did. It's like he was an angel who appeared out of nowhere, saved us, then disappeared. My client didn't see him at the hotel after that night either.

Kel Culb Gib

Elly Shariat oh well, he was a hero in disguise that night! The world works in mysterious ways- I'm glad he was there.

Elly Shariat

Kel Culb Gib absolutely! I'm so grateful that he appeared and the universe was looking out. I don't want any other girl to encounter him because he is so volatile and capable of anything!

Wow! I also matched with him years ago. Convo ended fast with me blocking him after I googled all the lawsuits against him and being a murder suspect. I also went down the rabbit hole of reading online chats and blogs about him... and several exes have accused him of stds. 😞 Sorry for the women who actually wasted their time on a date w him. Hopefully no one went back to his place. Luckily we all feel his creepiness pretty quickly. Even in the event that he is innocent in all his cases (which I don't believe it), just the fact that he attracts all this drama is enough. ❌×

Additionally, to conduct third party discovery unmasking the identity of an anonymous speaker for purposes of a libel case, plaintiff must first make reasonable efforts to notify defendant of the attempt to lift the shield of anonymity and must make a prima facie case supporting a finding of defamation. Another defendant, Vanessa Valdes, said she connected with Murrey on the dating app Hinge.

| Man devoted to eliminating squatters taking over Southern California homes >

"Right out of the gate, gave me his phone number and said, 'Let's hang,'" she recalled. "I commented with one message saying, 'Bold move' with a happy face, and then a barrage of harassing messages came afterward. So I immediately blocked him and reported him."

A few years later, Valdes commented on a post in the Facebook group about her experience with Murrey.

"I shared my personal experience, truthful, and my opinions on his behavior and now I'm being sued," Valdes said. "It's unfortunate that we're here, but I'm happy to provide all the evidence and get through this. Hopefully, justice will prevail."

In a statement to KTLA, Murrey denied all allegations and comments made by the women, saying in part:

"For years, key defendants obsessively tracked, stalked and incited harassment against me. These are women with whom I had little to no interaction. In every case of interaction, I rejected each one of them and cut them off, quite swiftly. Instead of going their separate ways, they went on for months and years to spread misinformation about me and countless others. Their actions were deliberate, and now they are playing the victims."

Vanessa Valdes, another defendant, said that the Facebook group is a platform for sharing personal experiences and opinions.

"Everything I said was just my experience with him and my opinions on how I think, you know, he should not be on dating sites," she told Los Angeles Fox affiliate KTTV.

Valdes says that she exchanged messages with Murray but never actually went on a date with him due to his offensive messages. She says he called her a "moron" and told her "it's fun watching you burn."

The defendants have filed various responsive motions, including a request to strike down the lawsuit under California's anti-SLAPP law, which is aimed at preventing lawsuits that are filed for the purpose of shutting down protected speech.

"Despite the fact that this lawsuit is completely frivolous and a bullying attempt by Plaintiff against Defendant Blalock it is an illegal attempt to restrain and punish Blalock's valid exercise of her constitutional right to freedom of speech, especially with the intent of public safety," writes defendant Amy Blalock in her motion, which has been reviewed by Law&Crime.

Vanessa Valdes and Olivia Berger are among the defendants in the defamation and privacy case brought by Stewart Lucas Murrey

Man sues more than 50 women for calling him a bad date

Stewart Lucas Murrey is seeking $2.1m in compensation after negative stories were shared about him on the online group 'Are We Dating the Same Guy?'

Harriet Alexander, New York

Monday April 08 2024, 6.45pm BST, The Times

Mr. Murrey, who has a long history of filing lawsuits related to defamation, claims he tried to join the Awdtsg group to defend himself, but was repeatedly denied membership. He is calling his female tormentors “femcels,” a play on “incels,” a term that describes “involuntarily celibate” men who deeply resent how women reject them even when these women should, in their view, be sexually submissive to them. Several self-identified incels have been the perpetrators of fatal mass shootings.

Vanessa Valdes, a defendant in Mr. Murrey's lawsuit, says she only told the truth on the Facebook group about what she says was a terrible online dating interaction with Mr. Murrey. KTLA

He had a partner 10000%.

Something similar happened to me years ago. Was on a layover in different city. Went to eat at a bar across the street from the hotel. Met a guy there and turns out he was staying at the same hotel. After talking for a while at the bar I invited him back to my room and we talked for a few more hours and things were starting to get hot and heavy.

He said he was gunna go grab a condom from his room and then just never came back. I was confused so I took the details he had told me (hometown, company he worked for, name) and quickly found his fb. His cover photo was of his wife and their newborn child. :)

I've had experiences since that seemed totally explainable on their end only to find out that they're cheating. It's becoming super common unfortunately. Sorry that happened, best to just block and move on!

My current partner and I are both ASD (though his presents differently than mine in a lot of ways). It was pretty obvious to me for a few reasons, especially being on the spectrum myself, but for starters - he's incredibly literal and takes things that people say very literally as well. Probably one of the more obvious signs is that he's beyond knowledgeable/informative about his "special interests" which for him include film, tv, marvel, and motorcycles- I'm currently on movie # 22 of 33 Marvel movies because I had never seen them and he immediately insisted we start a marathon (in order 😊). A lot of people on the spectrum have sensory issues; he won't wear socks because of this lol. Sometimes it can seem like he is being rude w his bluntness but he's j... See more

My ex broke up with me because of my weight. He made comments throughout the relationship and I relapsed with disordered eating and had lost 20lb over 7 or 8 months when I walked in on him cheating with another girl. He ultimately told me he only cheated cause he's not used to dating women as "big" as I am and he wasn't physically attracted to me. That was 2 years ago and my disordered eating has gone the opposite way now, so I've gained 30 lbs and feel uncomfortable even trying to put myself out there to meet someone new.

This kind of thing really fucks with our self image. I hope she is okay ☺. And good on you for standing up for her and recognizing harmful behavior before it got too far.
